NATIONAL CHAIRMAN OF EACH PART ISSUES A STATEMENT

Republicans Would Control Senate, Says Democrat Leader.

Use Congress as Club to Make Hughes Behave.

TO READ MOOSE OUT OF RANKS NEVER FULFILLED HIS WORD

Former Progressives Will Not Forget, Says McCormick.

Men Like Gallinger Are Real Spokesmen for G. O. P.

BY VANCE C. MCCORMICK.
(Chairman Democratic National Committee.)

New York, Aug. 30.—The force of Senator Gallinger's attack last Friday upon the Progressives must be realized by the members of the party by now. Their foremost newspaper champion, the Philadelphia North American, headlines its account of the proceeding in the senate:

"Standpat senator read Progressives out of G. O. P. ranks—Gallinger raises flag of Aldrich and Cannon—bring rebuke from Gronna, insurgent, old guard leader goes back to Payne tariff for inspiration."

The Washington correspondent of the North American characterized the proceeding as the baiting of Progressives and Progressive Republicans by the Republican reactionaries of the senate.

Senator Gronna, of North Dakota, one of the original insurgents in congress, took exception to the aspersions of Senator Gallinger, and an altercation followed, from which the North American correspondent drew this conclusion:

It was clear from his (Gallinger's) remarks that the standpat Republican senators have made up their minds, in the event of a Republican victory at the polls this fall, to seize control of the senate and use it as a club over Hughes to compel him to do their bidding. They are doing all in their power in the senate to convince the country they still have much to say about the Republican party.

I do not believe the Progressives are men and women of so short memory that they will not sense the true significance of this attack upon them from this particular quarter. Can they dissuade the New York Progressives from their opposition to the confirmation of President Wilson's appointment of Mr. Rublee, a Progressive, on the federal trade commission?

Will they not be forced to the long prevalent opinion of the rest of the country that Senator Gallinger's opposition to Mr. Rublee is not personal but political—that it is inspired by the opposition of the standpat Republicans to carry on a war of extermination against the Progressives?

"Beans Spilled Long Ago."

Such an episode as this one in the senate must inevitably lead to the conviction that the Republican party is still the unregenerated, unprogressive organization that it was before the Progressive revolt.

Some of the newspaper reports say that Senator Gallinger in assailing the Progressives, recalled the localities in which they were spilled long ago and beyond all possibility of their ever being gathered up again by Mr. Gallinger or Mr. Penrose or Mr. Cannon or Mr. Crane or Mr. Barnes or Mr. Hughes.

It could Mr. Hughes do if he should be elected and should attempt to gather up these beans? Suppose, under the promised "50-50" arrangement, he should attempt to effect the upstanding Progressive—a man of the type that Woodrow Wilson has alighted to off? Suppose he should request a standpat, reactionary congress to enact legislation for the benefit of all the people instead of in the interest of special privileges which the Republican party is bound by all of its present generation traditions to serve, would the Gallingers and the Penroses and the Cannons spill those beans again?

Is Vital Question.

This question of the difference between Mr. Hughes's promises and his reactionary party's ability to make them impossible of fulfillment is one that no independent voter should pass lightly.

Especially will the Progressive, who comes out from the Republican party, weigh the probabilities against their being permitted to participate in the "50-50" basis, either in influence or in patronage.

Mr. Hughes declares that he is "the spokesman of the national Republican party." He is mistaken; he is only the nominee—and the nominee not of choice, but of necessity.

Senator Gallinger and his like are the real spokesmen of the real Republican party, and they are the men against whose power the Progressive thinking voter must weigh the promise of a candidate who would be unable after election to fulfill any of his pledges that the Republican bosses might not wish to have fulfilled.

ADVERTISE FOR MEN
Railroads Will Employ Inexperienced Men as Brakemen and Firemen.

St. Louis, Aug. 30.—Advertisements for engineers and trainmen were inserted in the morning papers here again today by the Missouri, Kansas & Texas line. The ad said the men sought were to take the places of present employees who will strike September 4. The advertisements point out that all applications will be considered confidential.

Men who have had no railroad experience will be given positions as firemen and brakemen, the advertisements set forth.

Places as conductors and engineers are offered to experienced men. The appeal was sent out over the signature of W. A. Webb, chief operating officer with offices here.

Texas Railroad Advertise.
Dallas, Aug. 29.—Texas railroads, in preparation of a railroad strike, have advertised for men to operate their trains.

Wilson Entitled to Little Credence, Claim of Willcox.

Democrats Can't Cover Disregard of Party Pledges.

NEVER FULFILLED HIS WORD

Protection of American Rights Ignored, Says Republican.

Promises Broken, Threats Forgotten by the President.

BY WILLIAM R. WILLCOX.
(Chairman Republican National Committee.)

New York, Aug. 30.—In some of my previous letters I have given a few of the many instances which prove that President Wilson is not entitled to too much credence when he talks so smoothly about devotion "to the principle and the bona fide practice of civil service reform" or repeats his high sounding promises that he does not propose "to weaken or discredit the principle of arbitration."

Promises that are not kept, threats that are not fulfilled, assertions that are not backed up; statements constantly unsupported by action, lose their force and credibility after a while and those who make them cease to be entitled to the public confidence.

The cynical disregard of the platform pledges and of the campaign of four years ago, which has been the distinguishing feature of the Wilson administration in both its legislative and executive branches is not to be covered up or glossed over now by the brazen assertion and the hollow pretensions of a new platform or the forced assurances of a new campaign manager.

Four years ago the Democratic platform solemnly declared that the "constitutional rights of American citizens should protect them on our border and go with them through the world and every American citizen residing or having property in any foreign country was entitled to and must be given the full protection of the United States government, both for himself and his property."

Could Have Kept Word.

With all the felicity of phrase of which he is such a master, Mr. Wilson wedged himself to that plank in his platform. For more than three years he has been responsible for the fulfillment of that pledge.

In all the time that has not been a day when the opportunity did not press upon him to make good his word. But not an hour has he made it good. Not for an hour, not for a moment have the bandits of Mexico, who have been murdering and robbing and ravaging American women and destroying American property been made to understand the righteous wrath or the righteous power of the outraged American people.

The bandits of Mexico long have scorned the threats and promises alike of Mr. Wilson, because they long have known there was no stability of policy that the sacred rights of American citizenship must be preserved at home and abroad.

"We again declare," says Mr. Willcox, "that the government of the United States should protect the rights of its citizens not only at home but abroad, and any country having a government should be held strictly accountable for any wrongs done them, either to person or to property."

Americans Were Murdered.

A few weeks ago, Mr. Lansing, secretary of state, in an official communication to the Carranza government, used these words:

"The attacks on Brownsville, Reed House, and other places, and the Carranza soldiers took part in the looting, burning and killing."

Not only were these murders characterized by the most brutal and uncivilized acts of mutilation were perpetrated.

That was, in part, what happened to American citizens on American soil at the hands of Carranza's men last September. Yet in October, less than a month later, Secretary Lansing officially expressed the "pleasure" of President Wilson in "extending recognition to the defunct government of Mexico, of which General Venustiano Carranza is the chief executive."

Ten days later Mr. Wilson laid an embargo on the shipment of arms and munitions to all factions in Mexico except the Carranzistas. When he thus officially assisted Carranza, the names of 276 Americans who had been murdered by Carranza's men had been formally placed on file.

In the face of this overwhelming and undeniable record, the Democratic campaign managers and candidate have the iron effrontery now to talk with the American people about Democratic "protection" of their rights.

But the American people are not fools. They will not forget now or in November.

SOCIALIST PLATFORM
Council Would Abolish State Senate Among Other Things.

Kansas Socialists, who held a party council in Topeka Tuesday, succeeded in writing a platform fully as long as the program of either the Republicans or Democrats. In the main the state platform reiterates the statements of the national party.

Almost everything that was left out of the Republican or Democratic platform is in the Socialist statement.

FRENCH AVIATORS WEAR "SUMMER FURS" WHEN FLYING HIGH TO WING THEIR FOE

French aviators ready for high flight.

The French "Pilote-aviateur" and his gunner must have the warmest sort of wraps however hot the weather when they fly high to wing their foe. To escape the great accuracy of the German guns they do not dare fly low in clear weather and their most successful flights have been the highest ones. This big biplane, a favorite model with French birdmen, gives a wide range of vision to both pilot and gunner and is equipped with a powerful gun.

ON COAST LINES WILSON PLANO. K.

Trains Will Run on Schedule in Spite of Strikers.

Santa Fe Prepared for Any Emergency, A. G. Wells Says.

Los Angeles, Calif., Aug. 30.—All railroad lines reaching the Pacific coast are prepared for a strike, with an organization that during the last three months has been built up thru a national and local advertising campaign, to such a state of perfection that their trains will move on schedule one hour after the present force of trainmen are called out.

This statement was made by the general managers of the Southern Pacific, the Santa Fe and the Salt Lake roads. They added that although it may be weeks or possibly months before operating conditions are entirely normal, there will be practically no interruption to passenger and express service and the mails will not be delayed even the first day.

A. G. Wells, general manager of the Santa Fe, says his railroad is prepared for any emergency. "We have many applications from men whom we believe to be competent trainmen," said Mr. Wells.

General Manager H. G. Nutt of the Salt Lake road said:

"We are ready for any emergency. If a strike is called for September 4 at 7 a. m., the Salt Lake road will be running trains at 7:01 a. m., and the transportation of passengers will not be interrupted."

DR. SUN YAT SEN, FRIEND OF JAPS, IS BACK IN CHINA

Dr. Sun Yat Sen.

The return to China of Dr. Sun Yat Sen, first provisional president of the Chinese republic, is an event of international importance. Sun Yat Sen has been in exile in Japan, driven out of the country in the summer of 1913 by Yuan Shi Kai after the latter had been made president of China to succeed Sun Yat Sen. European nations as well as the United States are anxious to discover what power Sun Yat Sen will favor, now that the chances are good of his getting back into the saddle in China.

BACK TO TOPEKA

Vacationists Rushing Home, Fearing a Tieup.

Passenger Service Will Be Injured Under Strike.

"PRESS HAS TOLD THE STORY"

J. M. Connell Says Newspaper Warnings Are True.

Union Pacific Won't Be Responsible for Delays.

With the railroads reaping a great passenger harvest, as always is the case at this time of year, a general trainmen's strike as threatened will be a serious blow to that class of traffic, it is admitted in railroad circles. Not only would the strike cut down the traffic but it would cause unavoidable delays.

Notice was given today by the Union Pacific that persons who take passage on its trains after 6 o'clock Monday morning or persons who will not in the ordinary course of transportation reach their destination before that time may be subject to delay.

The road has also served notice that it cannot be responsible for any such delays.

Trains Are Crowded.
Trains coming into Topeka today were crowded with vacationists on their way home. Others refuse to believe they will be inconvenienced by future developments.

J. M. Connell, general passenger agent for the Santa Fe, said today, his road has taken no steps insofar as the passenger traffic is concerned.

"I think," he said, "the public has been given as much information thru the press as we could give it."

An official statement from the Santa Fe similar to the one issued by the Union Pacific is not unexpected, however.

REFORM PATRIOTISM
W. R. C. Frame Resolutions—Urge Memorial for Clara Barton.

Kansas City, Aug. 30.—The use of the term "war between the states" in referring to the Civil war before a member of the Woman's Relief Corps may bring an instant protest. That will be done if resolutions to be presented today at the annual meeting of the organization held here in conjunction with the annual encampment of the G. A. R. are adopted.

The capitalization of the word, "war," in the resolutions, which are emblematic, is in keeping with another of the resolutions to be presented. It provides that it intercede with writers and newspaper everywhere to capitalize the word "war" or "United States flag" in print.

Politics of Order Suffering.
The series of resolutions also provide the erection of a memorial to Clara Barton, the founder of the Red Cross. A movement already has been instituted by the Legion of Loyal Women. This is endorsed in today's resolution and the aid of the Relief Corps pledged.

Today's session was the first business meeting of the convention here. Two candidates for the presidency of the organization are waging active campaigns to succeed Mrs. E. B. Burgess. They are Mrs. Ida K. Martin of Minneapolis and Mrs. Lee Stewart Wadsworth of Boston. Each of them are past presidents, presidents and former national officers.

POSTPONE CONVENTION
Secretaries of State Will Not Meet at Topeka This Week.

Charleston, W. Va., Aug. 30.—The second annual convention of American secretaries of state, which was to have opened in Topeka, Kan., next Friday, has been postponed, according to announcement made here by Stewart F. Reed, president of the association.

The change in plans, he said, was due principally to the threatened railroad strike. No other date has been selected.

LEATHER WORKERS OUT
Six Thousand on Strike Now—Four Thousand to Quit Today.

New York, Aug. 30.—The novelty leather industry of the country is likely to be crippled if the strike in that trade assumes the proportions planned for it. New York is the home of 90 per cent of the trade.

More than 5,000 workers are on strike, leaving about 4,000 who, according to Organizer Becker, of the Traveling Goods and Leather Workers' International union, will quit today.

It was the opinion of some executives that the strike will not last longer than two weeks. These executives based their opinion on their belief that the present could only be tolerated a dislocation of the country's transportation facilities with consequent evils.

The executives individually have prepared last appeals to the loyalty of their men, which are now being issued.

IN THE STRIKE MESH
If Trains Stop Wilson and Hughes Will Be Marooned in Kentucky.

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 30.—If a strike on the railroads actually goes into effect next Monday and Tuesday, Woodrow Wilson and Charles E. Hughes, president and Republican nominee, will be marooned in Kentucky and a fleet of automobiles will have to be brought into service for them and their parties. On Monday Wilson comes to accept for the nation the Abraham Lincoln farm at Hodgenville, Ky. He expects to leave that night for Washington.

On Monday Hughes speaks in Nashville, coming on here that night. If the strike comes arrangements are already being made to bring Hughes here from Nashville in automobiles.

Democrats and Republicans alike are taking no chances on their respective standard bearers being delayed in Kentucky.

CHANGE OF STRIKE HERE HITS MARKET IN LONDON

London, Aug. 30.—The possibility of a big railroad strike in the United States is not only affecting the markets here but in high quarters there is much anxiety despite the optimistic assurances from America.

The British government is being kept informed regarding the progress of events touching on the trouble.

WAS HUNGRY, TOO!

But Hughes Had to Go Without His Breakfast.

Colorado Hotel Would Not Serve Party After 9:30.

Estes Park, Col., Aug. 30.—Governor Hughes motored up to the timber line, 10,000 feet above sea level, on the side of Long's Peak Tuesday afternoon and had lunch with Eben Mills, "father of Rocky Mountain park."

No attempt was made by the Republican nominee and Mrs. Hughes to negotiate the remaining 4,200 feet of the peak. Instead, they rambled about among the crags and visited among the cottagers, calling, among others, upon 18-year-old Winston Wheeler, son of a Wichita, Kan., banker, whose leg was broken in a motor wreck along the trail.

Up at Long's Peak the governor and Mrs. Hughes were also photographed once more for the movies.

Meets Old Friend.
Among those whom the governor found stopping high up there in the mountains was Harry P. Nichols, chief of the bureau of franchises of the finance department of New York City. Mr. Nichols was one of Mr. Hughes's assistants in the insurance investigation which first brought the presidential candidate into public notice.

Charles P. Farnham, manager of the Hughes party, has declared war on the management of the Stanley hotel, where the party is stopping. Mr. and Mrs. Hughes came down to breakfast at 9:45 with appetites sharpened by the crisp morning air.

They were informed by the head waiter that the dining room is closed at 9:30 and it would be impossible to serve them. The manager explained that it was difficult to retain help in these parts and rules were rules.

Had Rolls and Coffee.
All the breakfast the candidate and his wife got was coffee and rolls. Farnham was so incensed that he sent a newspaper everywhere to capitalize the word "war" or "United States flag" in print.

Today will be the last day of the stay in Estes Park. Thursday afternoon the governor will resume his campaign, going over to Loveland to address a county fair meeting before returning to Denver where, in the evening, he will depart for Topeka.
